The Biblical World. The phases of Classical Hebrew are often named after important literary works associated with . After the time of King David, the nation of Israel split into two kingdoms, Israel and Judah. Only in two cases are the deportees identified as slaves. In the absence of Aramaic influence, a shift to a general ultimate stress, or a stress pattern similar to Classical Arabic, might have been other possible outcomes. There are at least four major differences between the situation of Modern Arabic and Israeli Hebrew : . Quantatively the large majority of these Hebrew speaking Judeans lived outside the land of Israel, as pointed out by Glinert. The system of Hebrew temporal forms, simplistic and even primitive in certain features, is in other respects complex and subtle.
